#MTLHSummit

Dear Colleagues,

This year's Future of Mental Healthcare Summit comes at a crucial time in the history of the field. That's why this year's summit is characterized by these key principles:

MISSION

The Future of Mental Healthcare Summit provides the meeting point for healthcare leaders to have the discussions needed to define the next generation of care in mental health. Entering its 5th year, The Summit is dedicated to fostering idea sharing, building new connections and, ultimately, improving the lives of patients in need. Join the key decision-makers as we continue our mission of reimagining the future of mental healthcare, together.

FOCUSED

This highly focused and strategic summit fosters deep, meaningful connections and learnings. The carefully curated agenda and audience ensure that each discussion onsite is as impactful as possible. Cutting through the noise, The Future of Mental Healthcare Summit provides unrivaled opportunities to meet with senior peers in a dedicated setting and focus on what is going to move the needle for the field.

IMPACT

Built around discussion-led sessions and high-quality networking opportunities, the impact of The Future of Mental Healthcare Summit will once again be genuinely significant. Focusing on the critical challenges and opportunities facing the field will ensure each attendee leaves with an extensive list of learnings and connections that will positively impact their work for years to come. Join us to feel this impact!

I look forward to welcoming you in Boston in June.

9:10 PANEL DISCUSSION: How Are We Building The Future of Mental Healthcare to Provide Access to High Quality Care for ALL? greenspace

Moderator: Jesse Hayman, Chief Growth Officer, Greenspace Health
Innovation is exciting but unless we truly fix the front-end of the mental healthcare system, countless patients are going to be left untreated. This panel will home in on the persisting access challenges and share their thoughts on crucial questions, including:

- What needs to change for us to improve access to mental healthcare for all?
- Generally speaking, how are patients telling us they want to access mental healthcare?
- How are AI and Tech helping us provide more opportunities for access for patients?
- How can we work better with partners across the entire mental healthcare ecosystem?
- How do we need to evolve our current systems to provide better access to more marginalized groups of patients?

Panelists:

Laura Bond, Senior Program Manager, Mental Health for All Lab, Harvard Medical School

Caroline Carney, President & CMO, Magellan Health

Jennifer Cullen, President, Behavioral Services, Beth Israel Lahey Health

CRUCIAL CASE STUDIES

11:20 Creating Mental Health Access for Our Nation's Most Vulnerable: Is Integrated Behavioral Health the Answer?

Cara Fuchs, PhD, MPH, Vice Chair, Chief of Psychology and Director, Integrated Behavioral Health, Boston Medical Center

Katherine Gergen-Barnett, Vice Chair of Primary Care Innovation & Transformation, Boston Medical Center

- Review the impact of our IBH model on patient's access to mental health care, including reviewing our data as well as case studies
- Discuss the pain points of IBH models in hospital settings, including how access does not account for the administrative needs for financial productivity
- Share next steps in growing IBH "outside of the walls" of hospital settings in order to create even more access for our most marginalized communities.

12:10 pm PANEL DISCUSSION: Elevating and Empowering Young People in Their Mental Healthcare Journey

Moderator: Marlon Morgan, Founder & CEO, Wellness Together, Inc.

The pandemic only exacerbated the already increasing prevalence of mental healthcare and substance abuse issues in young people, with more than half of parents expressing concerns over their children's mental well-being. We must address that the current youth mental health crisis is flawed and reform the way we promote well-being in young people.

Panelists:

Miri Bar-Halpern, Director, Intensive Outpatient Program, Boston Child Study Center
Sarah Fleury, Managing Director, Behavioral Health, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Rhode Island

Janet Kahn-Scolaro, Vice President, Behavioral Health, PM Pediatrics
